

GDPR Project support

Many organizations have already taken the necessary steps to implement the new privacy regulation. With the stricter legislation you are undoubtedly confronted with privacy issues to which you do not have an immediate answer. The GDPR contains many open standards that are sometimes difficult to translate into practice. Our team of AVG Juristen will gladly provide you with advice.

Method

Your organization may have appointed a privacy officer or there may be a privacy project in progress. In both cases, your organization may need support from our team of AVG Juristen. We offer both project leaders and project staff to help you on your way.

Project Manager

A project leader organizes the entire privacy project, directs employees and reports to the management of your organization. The privacy policy is set out in consultation with managers from various disciplines. Our project leaders have organizational power and have gained a lot of knowledge in different sectors.

Project employee

A project employee is directed by your organization and focuses on translating policy into practice. Our project staff familiarize themselves with your organization by mapping out all processing flows. They then offer support in developing the required documentation, such as setting up a processing register and concluding processing agreements. The advantage of our project staff is that they can easily translate the GDPR into practice.

Support from AVG Juristen

Our team of AVG Juristen can, among other things, advise and guide your organization with the following elements:

- Register of processing
The processing flows mapped
- The processor agreement
Concluding processor agreements
- Privacy statement
Inform stakeholder about the processing of personal data
- Data breach
Preparation, advice and support in case of a data breach
- PIA / DPIA
The new legal assessment of data protection effects
- Training and Awareness
Informing and instructing employees about the processing of personal data

More information?

Contact us for a free introduction or a specific offer.

Tel: 030-78 52 791

E-mail: kantoor@avgjuristen.nl